

The fee payment deadline for the Fall 2018 term is August 27, 2018. An AUG fee deferral is an extension of the fee payment deadline, and can be granted to students who submit an application for Adult Upgrading Grants (AUG) and meet the grant eligibility criteria.

The AUG Fee Deferral expiry date is November 2, 2018. If you have an approved AUG fee deferral, you are responsible for ensuring that you have paid all of your fees by this date. Outstanding balances after this date will be subject to late payment fees and accounts receivable holds.

What happens next?

1. After you submit your Adult Upgrading Grant (AUG) application and AUG Fee Deferral application, your eligibility for the grants will be reviewed.
2. If you meet the eligibility criteria for the grants, we will mail you a letter confirming this and advising that an AUG fee deferral has been applied to your student account.
3. If you do not meet the eligibility criteria for the grants, we will mail you a letter letting you know why and advising that the AUG fee deferral cannot be applied to your account. You are responsible for making the payment to your student account by the fee payment deadline of August 27, 2018.
4. After the standard Fall 2018 full term add/drop period ends on September 17, your course registration will be reviewed to see if your courses are approved for the grants. We will mail you a letter confirming whether or not the grants are approved. If the grant is not approved, you are responsible for payment of all outstanding balances by the AUG fee deferral expiry date of November 2, 2018.
5. If the grants are approved, they will be paid directly to your Capilano University student account. If there are any remaining fees owing on your student account after the grant is paid, you are responsible to pay the outstanding balance by the AUG fee deferral expiry date of November 2, 2018 or else you may be subject to late payment fees and accounts receivable holds.
